

Friends of Warrandyte State Park

Did you know that Warrandyte has its very own indigenous plant nursery, which is open to the public? FOWSP also provides information on local plants, weeds, and various aspects of bushland conservation to the wider community.

Formed in 1982, FOWSP is a non-political group of more than 270 families, making us one of the largest and most active “Friends” groups in Victoria. We work closely with Parks Victoria Rangers, and have a mutual interest in the conservation and rehabilitation of native bushland in the many areas of Warrandyte State Park, and its surrounding nature corridors.

If you'd like to volunteer with our Thursday group, we meet at the Pound Bend nursery, at 9:30am, for:

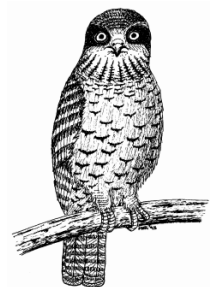

- propagation
- re-vegetation
- weed and vermin control
- and many other activities.
- nursery logistics & repairs
- seed collection
- fauna counts

Morning tea is provided. Call: 1300 764422,

or visit us on the web at: fowsp.org.au

(or scan the QR-code), to find out more about us, member benefits, and of course, how you can join up.

Friends of Warrandyte State Park

Did you know that Warrandyte has its very own indigenous plant nursery, which is open to the public? FOWSP also provides information on local plants, weeds, and various aspects of bushland conservation to the wider community.

Formed in 1982, FOWSP is a non-political group of more than 270 families, making us one of the largest and most active “Friends” groups in Victoria. We work closely with Parks Victoria Rangers, and have a mutual interest in the conservation and rehabilitation of native bushland in the many areas of Warrandyte State Park, and its surrounding nature corridors.

If you'd like to volunteer with our Thursday group, we meet at the Pound Bend nursery, at 9:30am, for:

- propagation
- re-vegetation
- weed and vermin control
- and many other activities.
- nursery logistics & repairs
- seed collection
- fauna counts

Morning tea is provided. Call: 1300 764422,

or visit us on the web at: fowsp.org.au

(or scan the QR-code), to find out more about us, member benefits, and of course, how you can join up.

